TRUMPS AT THE MASONS' FAIR THAT TAKE THE TRICK EVERY TIME.

The Ladies Making More of a Success of It -Interest in Voting Contests.

ANY things beautiful to see are met, beginning at the sidewalk ning at the sidewalk as you ascend the steps leading to the meeting hall, Masonic Temple, these afternoons and evenings. The wives and daughters and sweethearts of the Masons of Brooklyn and this town foresaw the fair for the Masonic Asylum fund, they must construct their booths on the same sir. But they forgot the old adage "Nothing succeeds like success," and made no calculation on being flooded daily with offerings from dealers and kind-hearted citizens.

The scene in front of the Temple ench day is like that in a freight-receiving depot. Drays and carts deposit safely encased goods of all kinds there, and the Masonic country.

of all kinds there, and the Masonic committee never before worked so hard as in stowing away the goods for the ladies, notwithiding that loads of things are taken away standing that loads of things are taken away by purchasers each day and evening.

Every inch of available space in the building has been taken. The corridors have booths in them, and fair saleswomen lure the shekels from the susceptible customers on every hand, even on the chilly stairway.

Right Worthy Brother Washington E. Connor is the officer of the day to-day, and a committee, of which Charles T. Griffiths is chairman, has so arranged an immense "line" of warm-looking house furnishings in the corridors that the visitor who can get no farther owing to the crowd, almost inagines himself in a warm and brilliant drawing-room, while the breeze from the street no farther owing to the crowd, almost imagines himself in a warm and brilliant drawing-room, while the breeze from the street whistles up his trousers legs.

Inside the hall the beauty and brilliance of the scene is bewitching, dazzling. "A winning wile, a sunny smile," and a half-pouting lip soliciting a man's patronage beat all the "bargains" ever invented by the enterprising dry-goodsman. These little commercial trumps take every trick, and tenderhearted men come out of the fair after an hour with pockets as empty as though they had met a bunco-steerer. But their hearts are happy, and they know that they have placed their money where it will do the most good. The fair is a splendid place to buy Christmas presents, for by purchasing of these fair merchants you make them happy, you are exquisitely happy yourself, and, of course, the recipients of the gifts will be made happy.

Last evening there was a vandeville entertainment in the Commandery room under the direction of H. S. Sanderson and Richard Fitzgerald, and to morrow evening the Venetian Troubadours, six ladies and two goutlemen, will appear in character and give selections on the mandolin. Miss Eleanor B. Lyman, elocutionist, and Charles H. Govau, humorist, will add their repertoires to the entertainment.

The balloting contests are going on with exciting interest. Inspector Williams seems to be sure of riding that life-like though innocent-looking goat. His canvass is in the efficient hands of Brotner Gruber. The goat will go to the most popular Mason in the world, and P. F. D. Hibbs. C. C. Shayne, Col. Ehlers and R. Weil follow Inspector Williams in that order, while the Prince of Wales, Emperor William and Unser Fritz are named among the European Masons.

There are no lotteries at the fair, but a $1,500 Chickering piano will be given to one of the people who purchase $1 shares in it, and a $1,250 Hardman and a $1,000 sealskin sack, the gifts of E. B. Harper and C. C. Shayne respectively, will be given to one of the purchasers of tickets to the Steinway Hall Musical Festival, Friday evening, Dec. 16. No law will be violated in the allotment of these gifts, though the manner of sllotment is a secret with the managers.

A new contest is for a handsome rocker, the gift of Mrs. George H. Wooster, to Crescent Lodge ladies. It will go to the wife of the most popular lodge master, and Mrs. E. H. Harper and Mrs. William Smith lead in the voting. The ladies in charge of this booth are Mrs. E. B. Harper, chairwoman; Mrs. J. W. Kraft, Mrs. H. M. Hitchcock, Mrs. S. P. Zacharie, Mrs. Mark M. The sale of goods last night was something thought he was pursued by murderers.

The sale of goods last night was something wonderful, and the purchasers got their Christmas presents much cheaper than such things could be bought at the stores. The fair is a monster success, and well it should be, for its object is noble.

REMOVED A FACIAL NERVE.

Dr. Porter, of Boston, Performs a Remarkable Surgical Operation. ISPECIAL TO THE WORLD.

Boston, Dec. 1 .- Dr. Porter, of the Massa chusetts General Hospital, one of the most skilful surgeons in the country, performed yesterday a very remarkable operation, removing the facial nerve from a patient whose existence for many years been simply one of torture on account of his extreme suffering from neuralgic pains in his face. It was decided that the only remedy, a heroic one, was the removal of the diseased nerve from the face. He willingly submitted to the operation.

diseased nerve from the face. He willingly submitted to the operation.

In beginning the operation Dr. Porter made an incision at the angle of the law, or where it hinges on the skull. The law-bone being laid bare, the part where the mental foramen is located was trepanned. This being exposed to view the doctor proceeded to eath hold of the diseased nerve, and by a slight exertion pulled it out of the foramen. Next an incision was made under the eye, laying bare the nerve, which was also pulled out. A similar operation was performed over the eye.

In this way the greater part of the nerve was removed. Naturally there was a free flow of blood, but this was stopped by ligbeing present. Frances E. Willard was the leading speaker.

A great conference will be held to-day and a mass-meeting this evening. The meeting is very harmonions. To-day's session will be devoted to the reading of papers on set topics and their discussion. There is much interest in the meeting.

LATIMER E. JONES BROUGHT BACK. Goshen Jail This Morning.

ISPECIAL TO THE WORLD, 1
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Latimer E. Jones, late proprietor of the Orange County Stock Farm, was released from the Goshen jail this morning on an order of County Judge J. G. Wilkin vacating the order of arrest issued by Supreme Court Judge C. F. Brown. He was at once taken in custody by the officer from the New York District-Attoney's office, and taken to New York to answer to an indictment for forgery.

Latimer E. Jones was brought bach to this city to-day by Detective Kernan, of the District-Attorney's office. He is indicted for forgery on half a dozen counts. His parents furnished the information on which Detective Kernan secured his man and Jones's mother qualified on his bail bond. Working on the Ives and Stayner Case. Lawyer Charles W.
